

The top stories at 4-30.

We're told we're entering an 'era of global boiling' - with July forecast to be the hottest month ever recorded.

The United Nations chief says the heat is 'unbearable' as sustained high temperatures prolong wildfires across Europe.

**

A man's been told he'll never be released from prison, for shooting dead police sergeant Matt Ratana in a custody cell in September 2020.

Whole life orders - like the one handed to Louis ((Pron: loo-ee)) De Zoysa - are rare, with fewer than 70 people currently serving one.

**

It's been confirmed Sinead O'Connor died after being found unresponsive at her home in south London.

But no medical cause of death has been given, and test results could take weeks.

**

Sport, Jordan Henderson's work campaigning for LGBT-plus rights has been called a 'PR stunt' - after signing for a side in Saudi Arabia, where same-sex relationships are illegal.

The former Liverpool captain's understood to be making 350-thousand pounds a week at Al-Ettifaq.

**

And a Barbie actor's knocked down suggestions of a rift between two Kens.

Simu Liu insists Ryan Gosling's the 'best human in every way' after an apparent awkward encounter at the movie's premiere.

[Total 00:01:08]